

Steel T-Astragal Outswing Security Flange

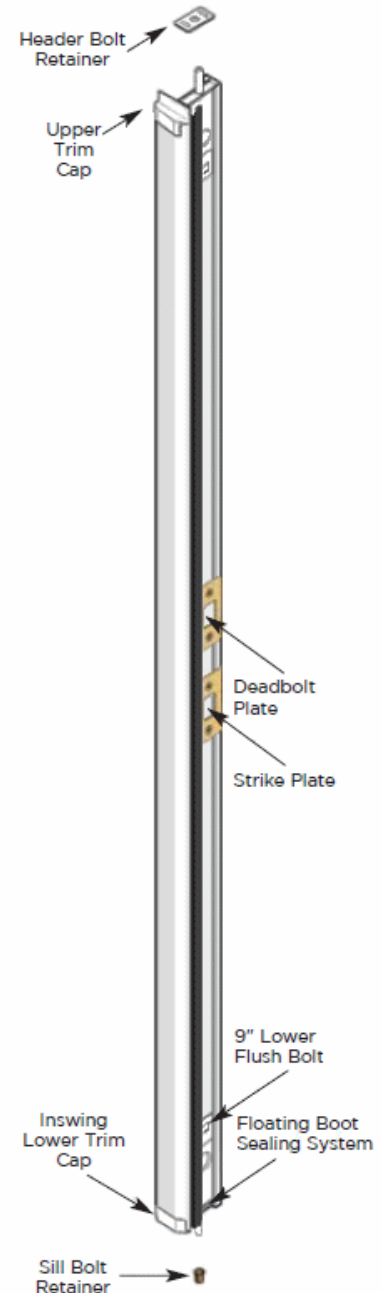

Steel T-Astragals feature a patented 3-point sealing system between the active door, inactive door, and sill. The boot lifts up with the foot bolt and off of the threshold when the door is opened. This allows for repeated use without seal failure.

Introducing the Steel T- astragal outswing security flange

This optional component provides added security by covering the exterior space between the doors, preventing operation of the flush bolts from the outside while the door is closed
